
From: EuG [mailto:spizder@gmail.com]
Sent: Thursday, February 01, 2007 2:59 PM
To: OSComments
Subject: Comment on raising application fee by USCIS (USCIS-2006-0044)

Hello,

I am family-based immigrant from Russia. I was brought in U.S. on K-2 visa (dependent child of fiance) last year when I was 19. My parents married within 90 days. But they refused to adjust my status because it is very expensive and they didn't want to support me and sign Affidavit of Support (which I must have in order to immigrate) for me. They threatened me with jail and deportation, then just kicked me out from their house. They completely abandoned me. Now I am homeless and about to turn 21, so I almost have no hope to become permanent resident and have no money to go back to Russia (I have even no money for buying food, I am staying in homeless youth shelter). I have no employment authorization so I can't work legally. I know that fee of Adjustment of Status petition increasing 3 times from $325 to $905. How I can pay it if I am homeless and may not work in U.S?

Thank you,
Evgeny