

From: Jeffery Yang [mailto:yang@pblserver.salk.edu]
Sent: Wednesday, January 31, 2007 5:52 PM
To: OSComments
Subject: Comments on Fee changes 2007

Well, I generally fine with the fee increase, even though the amount that changed is quite heavy. My point is that I don't care too much about these one-time fees, but more concerned about the efficiency in processing immigration cases. I am an applicant with I-485 pending for almost one and half years now, with no movement of any kind at all. I know lots of fiends have their name check stucked, with explanation that FBI is the one to be blamed. Well, to us, that's the US government showing very low efficiency in recruiting talented immigrants.

There is a lot of debate about illegal immigrants, who mainly take over those low pay jobs, but how about we, highly educated immigrants struggling in these timing consuming LEGAL pathway? Does anyone care about us?

Well, my voice maybe too faint to wake up anyone, but I feel I need to say it aloud!