

To whom it may concern:

I understand that there is a planned fee increase for couples pursuing international adoption. This is very disappointing as international adoption is already extremely expensive, and prevents many from being able to go through the process. I hope that it is not too late for this fee increase to be reconsidered! There must be another place to get the funds necessary for whatever shortage you are trying to fulfill! Please know what an increased burden this will be for adoptive families.
