

I ask that you not increase the fees for immigration. I do not believe that will solve any of our immigration problems. It might solve a few of your budget problems but I doubt that as well.

I understand that you would use the additional fees to improve the efficiency of processing the fees, but then cost of the fees should go down. Just invest some money ahead of time and reduce your costs, then you won't have to increase the fees in the first place.

I understand that the degree of difficulty of attaining immigration status in the first place is extraordinary, it doesn't need an additional financial burden. America was built on the backs of hard working immigrants...and we can rebuild our failing infrastructures in the same way.
