

To whom this concerns,

I am a international student studying in my master's degree in Kent State University, Ohio. I would like to comment on I-765, I-539 processing fee increase plans. I have recently heard this news at a H1-B workshop held from our school international student office. Being an international student, I am living under a tight budget which barely covers my living expense from limited working hours and location. This idea of doubling the processing fee doesn't sound reasonable to me unless there is a convincing explanation to the increase. Given that this issue is applicable only to non-residents in the US seeking a job opportunity, I oppose to the the fee increase and suggest that the fee should be fixed or lowered.

Representing one of the numerous international students in the United States,

Hwan-Kyu Park
Kent State University
Information Architecture and Knowledge Management
E-mail Address: hpark6@kent.edu