As some one who might want to adopt a child from any other country I feel that the price that we have to put out is all ready high to more money sound like it is getting harder and harder to adopt a child.

Unless you happen to be a movie star or some one with money. You want people to some thing good then you keep raising the stakes. Right now it takes a year or so to get a child from a different county so the have to renew there paper work with you added a never fee, let the same paper work, be used until the child is adopted for at lease two years. That will save the parents that are adopting some cost. I think that the price hike is unreasonable to do when there is so money laid out now. Thank you for your time.
